

I strongly suggest that the FCC fine Viacom, which owns both MTV and CBS, for its lack of decency during the half-time activities of the Super Bowl. I and my family were dismayed by the shows during the game's half-time. Such activities as: disrespect for the flag, grotch grabbing, to the the obvious, planned, and pre-mediated nudity of Jackson are deplorable and are not within the guidelines for primetime viewing. A very large fine is in order; or better yet a ban of Viacom from broadcasting sports events for two years.
